57. Please identify any specific initiatives/good practices in your country, involving RBC and other policy areas like public procurement, trade and investment, and/or SOEs.
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Clean Production Agreements, which are voluntary public-private agreements between a business sector and state administration bodies, led by the Sustainability and Climate Change Agency. Their purpose is to contribute to the sustainable development of companies through the establishment of specific goals and actions that are not required by the legal framework. - Creation of the Public Companies Group within the framework of the development of the Third National Action Plan (NAP3) on Business and Human Rights. - Coordination and/or participation in the Subgroup of Responsible Business Conduct of the Pacific Alliance to promote RBC and policy coherence in the region. - Network of Chile's Trade Agreements that include references to Corporate Social Responsibility and Responsible Business Conduct. - TRANSFORMA ALIMENTOS. This is an initiative led by the Chilean Economic Development Agency (CORFO) and supported by the Ministry of Agriculture that, through public-private coordination and collaboration, aims to promote the sustainable growth of Chile's food industry. Its work focuses on building capacities and generating knowledge to enhance innovation and competitiveness, aiming to develop a more valuable, sophisticated, and diversified food industry. - The Agro-Food Export Council, led by the Minister of Agriculture and with active participation from the private sector, aims to position Chile as a leading food-exporting country. To achieve this, one of the key focus areas is the sustainability of agro-export sectors, enhancing their competitiveness and positioning Chilean export foods as a sector committed to sustainable development. In this context, the Sustainability Working Group fosters coordinated public-private initiatives in four key areas: providing information and aligning support instruments for sustainability; preparing sectoral sustainability reports; developing best practices guidelines; and conducting outreach activities to promote sustainability across the industry.
58. Please include any other examples of policy coherence activities:
The NCP has an Intergovernmental Committee that brings together various public entities, fostering the sharing of experiences and initiatives in pursuit of policy coherence. At the same time, the NCP participates in various initiatives where it promotes RBC and, consequently, policy coherence such as the participation in the Clean Production Agreements, NAPs, and Implementation Plan of Escazu Agreement.
